RENE BACHE'S BUDGET NOVELTIES IN VALENTINES

MANY FRESH AMATORY IDEAS SUPPLIED BY CUPID THIS YEAR.

Valentine's Day No Longer Merely for Young Folks. New Use for Dolls—A Valentine That Smiles to Order—Goo-Goo Eyes—"Valentine Flush."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5.—Cupid, that enterprising boy, has surpassed himself this year in the production of novel designs for valentines. Many of them, indeed, are remarkably clever and ingenious. For instance, there is a new valentine that represents a trunk tied up with a big white ribbon and bow of indubitable honeymoon significance. It is flat (being designed in perspective), but, on being unfolded, discloses a picture of Cupid himself inside. Some of these valentines that unfold are quite wonderful—for example, one that shows, on the outside, the back of a little girl who is looking through a hole in a fence. When the outer leaf is turned back, the face of the girl is seen. She looks very cross, and no wonder, for, on turning over the leaf that represents the fence, two other figures are disclosed—a small boy and another little girl who is being hugged! It was at this spectacle that the first little girl was peeping. Another very clever idea is a valentine that smiles. It is likewise ingenious in a mechanical way. The design represents a huge daisy, with a face in the middle. On a ribbon hanging beneath are the words, "You are a daisy." When the ribbon is pulled, the face alters its expression entirely, the mouth expanding into a smile, and the eyes opening with a bright expression.

Valentine Dolly.

Quite a novelty this season are valentine dolls—little dollys with peaked caps and real hair, which carry large hearts in their hands, or in some other way are made to have a significance appropriate to the good saint's anniversary. In some instances they stand on little boxes, which bear the inscription, "St. Valentine." These are likely to please children, but are also suitable for dinner favors.

Valentine's day, it might be said, is no longer for young folks merely. Their elders have taken it up, and are not only sending valentines to each other, just as they do Easter cards, but are utilizing the anniversary in other ways. Dinner parties and other entertainments are commonly given on the saint's day for the sake of the opportunity it gives to employ the sentiment for decorative purposes. Thus, for example, at a valentine tea, the cakes may be noted in heart shaped tins, and the valentines themselves, if it be a card party, the tally cards may have the same appropriate form. Possibilities of this sort are endless, and may be turned to account at cost to no cost by persons who are clever with scissors, paste pot and paint brush.

A Flush in Hearts.

One of the striking new valentines represents a hand holding five playing cards of the heart suit, from ace to 10. Of course, this is what poker players call a "royal straight flush," which is the highest hand in the pack. Hence the appropriateness of an inscription printed on the ace, which says, "I offer you without a blush my heart and hand, for I am flush." Inasmuch as "goo goo eyes" are supposed to be instrumental in flirtation, it is not surprising to find them turned to account on the new valentines, some of which have faces with button eyes, very shiny and expressive. But the oddest notions of the realistic order are small objects of various kinds which are fastened to valentine cards, with suitable inscriptions attached. One of them is a little brass watch, with the words, "You are about as slow as this."

Many Novelties.

Another is a tiny slate, with a real sponge fastened to it by a string. And the cards say: "Upon this slate write carefully Every time you think of me." Similarly accompanying a miniature

$3.50 Recipe Cures Weak Men—FREE

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excessive, unnatural drains, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest and most effective combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together. I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest acting restorative remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4043 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich. and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $2.00 to $3.50 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

loving cup, there is an inscription saying, "Will you share this with me?" A little pipe is attached to a card that bears a picture of two lovers and the words, "I love you in like manner." A picture is rendered significant by the suggestion, "I should like to pick up an acquaintance with you."

Very silly, of course; but it does not do to be too serious in connection with St. Valentine's day. A small wooden ball is fastened to a card on which are the words: "Meet me at the ———." Another card has a tiny owl, with the verses:

"The owl said, 'Woo-woo!' And I said, 'Who-who?' Then he said, 'Woo you!' Then I said, 'You'll do!'"

Absurd? Yes, indeed. But not more so than a card to which a metal dust-pan, baking pan and spoon are attached, all in miniature—with the inscription: "I have a dustpan and a spoon. I have a baking pan: So now I'm ready very soon To have a little man. So, please do not think him decline, But promptly be my Valentine."

Love Updated. To yet another card is fastened a small cigar. And the inscription reads: "If you refuse me, my love is blighted. Love, like a cigar, should never be re-lighted."

A typewriting machine in the middle of a floral heart is expressive of the up-to-date notion that typewritten love letters are not to be scorned. Indeed, it might be said that, in view of the possibility of a breach of promise suit, they are often safer. Cupid himself, in one of the new valentines, is seen in the act of inscribing a love message on a typewriter, the paper sheet on which it is inscribed being cut in the form of a heart.

Decorative Ornaments.

Interesting as a novelty are little red cupid cut out of pastboard, which one may buy at a cheap rate, a package of 25 for only 15 cents. These may be utilized for all sorts of decorative purposes appropriate to the anniversary; but they are particularly intended to be stuck on the outside of envelopes containing valentines. It will be remembered that, not many years ago, valentine envelopes were always made in very fancy patterns—elaborately embossed, or otherwise decorated. These have gone out of fashion apparently, and the new valentines have envelopes that are perfectly plain. Whence the desirableness of ornamenting them in some such way as that above suggested.

One of the valentines for this season represents a pretty box—though first being designed in perspective. On being opened, it is found to be filled with pastboard flowers. A similar contrivance is labeled "Love's Casket," and when opened, reveals a whole bunch of cupid.

Oysters and Lobsters.

Very realistic oysters, lifelike and looking much like the real thing, open and disclose pairs of lovers engaged in amatory caresses. There are also lobsters (uncomplimentary perhaps), which are of similar design. A very diabolical looking imp, with horns and a tail, bears the inscription, "Who the devil is my Valentine?"

A valentine that is really very cunning represents the terrestrial globe. When a little pastboard heart that serves as a catch is turned, the globe opens, and inside of it is found a picture of an attractive damsel, labeled, "The sweetest girl in the world."

One of the new valentines is a piece of music in miniature, entitled, "Honey, I Am Waiting." Another exhibits Cupid in the costume of an ancient Roman legionary, with a heart for a shield. In yet another the mischievous boy rides a turtle—meaning, presumably, that he is going rather too slow to suit somebody.

Valentine Postcards.

For this season valentine postal cards are made up into bottles—half a dozen of them tied together with a ribbon bow. But the most striking combination of usefulness and appropriate suggestion is afforded by the heart shaped pin cushions, which carry a dozen safety pins and quite a lot of ordinary ones. The lover's heart is usually called upon to endure many pin pricks, but, if some of the pins are safety pins, they may at least be counted upon to render his affections more secure.
